Historic, Archive Document

Do not assume content reflects current scientific knowledge, policies, or practices.
PODOCARPUS
ELONGATUS
A Superbly Beautiful and Hardy New House Plant

Podocarpus Elongatus

THERE has been a long felt want for a fine foliaged plant for dark halls and places where ferns do not thrive. We are sure we have it in Podocarpus Elongatus, a charming plant that does not get scale, and much hardier from cold than any Boston or other Nephrolepis fern. A large plant can be kept in a small pot.

We are sure that this beautiful foliaged plant must rival the ferns or Kentias in popularity. Grows readily from cuttings and a larger and better six-inch pot specimen can be grown in three years from a cutting than a Kentia or other palm in four years from a seed.

Do not forget that we are specialists in Ericas or heathers, and hundreds of plant novelties not carried by any other firm in this country.

Visitors are always welcomed.

THE COOLIDGE RARE PLANT GARDENS

North Santa Anita Avenue  Box 523, Station B
PASADENA, CALIFORNIA